A Call For Heroism

The third step is a proper understanding of sanctity—the heroic struggle for virtue. True and heroic virtue is not study: “Amid the passions, it is pure mind which is crowned.” 8 True and heroic virtue is not an art or an informatic science. It is not crass commerce or a mechanism of conformity. It is not an art, but rather a profound respect for human reason and the teachings of the Lord. True and heroic virtue is not study: “Amid the passions, it is pure mind which is crowned.” 8

The third step is a proper understanding of sanctity—the heroic struggle for virtue. True and heroic virtue is not study: “Amid the passions, it is pure mind which is crowned.” 8 True and heroic virtue is not an art or an informatic science. It is not crass commerce or a mechanism of conformity. It is not an art, but rather a profound respect for human reason and the teachings of the Lord. True and heroic virtue is not study: “Amid the passions, it is pure mind which is crowned.” 8

Beyond Any Doubt, the Church Shall Prevail

If both clergy and faithful carry out their respective duties, with the unfeeling help of the Blessed Virgin Mary, of Saint Joseph, Her most chaste spouse and Protector of the Universal Church, of all the angels and saints, we will be rewarded by seeing the Church win one more battle. The present crisis is but one more episode—even if one of the worst—in Her glorious history of struggles.

We are reminded of this by the Catholic intellectual Prof. Plinio Corrêa de Oliveira, who wrote in his seminal work, Revolution and Counter-Revolution: Amid the storms through which She passes today, the Church could proudly and tranquilly say: I have seen other winds, I have beheld other storms. 9 The Church has fought in other lands, against adversaries from among other peoples, and She will undoubtedly continue to face problems and enemies quite different from those of today until the end of time. 9

Notes:
1. In opposition to a usage that is becoming generalized, we restrict the term “homosexuality” to homosexual practices, thus excluding the more inclina-
2. www.ewtn.com/library/catechism/PauCate.txt. Theologians give Gen. 19:13 as the scriptural basis for this designation.
4. See Gen. 19:1-29; Lev. 18:22; Dnt. 22:5.
5. See 2 Pet. 2:6-7; Rom. 1:24-27; 1 Cor. 6:10; 1 Tim. 1:10.
7. The homosexual abuse of teenage boys is pederasty (ephebophilia).
10. Moral “relativists” try to adapt Catholic doctrine and morality to one’s personal fancies or the ruling form of worldliness. Objective norms of thought and action are thus destroyed. The person becomes the slave of his caprices and those of fashion, as channeled by the media. Eventually, he accepts evil in the guise of good. See Pope John Paul II’s allocation to the religious and priests participating in the First Italian National Congress on Missions to the People for the ‘80s, Feb. 6, 1981, L’Osservatore Romano, Feb. 7, 1981.
12. Plinio Corrêa de Oliveira, Revolution and Counter-Revolution (York, Penn.: The American TFP, 1993) 115.
contradict Church teachings. The media are engaging in a blitz to portray the Church defined by the sins of Her human members and not by Her Divine origins and doctrines.

We reject these claims. This is not a crisis of Church governing structures but above all one of Faith. In reply, we present the following statement.

The Church, Holy and Immortal, Shall Prevail

"Thou art Peter; and upon this rock, I will build My Church, and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against Her" (Matt. 16:18). To this first promise, Our Lord added a second: "Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will not pass away" (Matt. 24:35). Thus did Jesus Christ establish the One Holy Roman Catholic and Apostolic Church, sealing Her immortality with His divine guaranty.

The violence of the storm currently assailing the Church would likely bring down many a human institution, but not the institution supported by God’s own promises. The Church’s enemies try with all their might to defame and disinherit Her. They hurl mud and muck, but they fail to sully Her.

They declare that She cannot survive the scandals perpetrated within and against Her, but their words ring with the uncertainty that it will indeed be so. Confronted with the history of the Church, they know by experience that the Church is both holy and immortal. Nothing stains Her, not even infamy rising from Her ranks, for She is the spotless Bride of Christ.

Even at the height of His passion—when the insults against His Divine Person, the wounds inflicted on His Sacred Body, and His public humiliations had reached their apex—the Word of God Incarnate lost none of the grandeur in His moral profile.

We see this in the Holy Shroud of Turin. Here is a Man atrociously wounded, crucified, and crushed, yet, no painting or sculpture of a king presents more majesty, dignity, or honor than the figure stamped on that burial cloth.

Betrayed Ignobly From Within, Attacked Fiercely From Without

So it is with the Catholic Church today. At the height of Her passion, betrayed ignobly from within, attacked fiercely from without, nothing can disturb Her serenity. When this frightful storm finally abates, She will appear again radiant and victorious.

But while the storm lasts, the suffering is intense, and our faith is tested. For us Catholics this means the shockingly realization that a hostile element, a horrendous cancer, grows within the Mystical Body of Christ. We shoulder at the tragic and unnatural “peaceful coexistence” between vice and that which is virtuous and holy.

The existence of homosexuality in the institution that is the very soul of purity and chastity is deplorable beyond words. Equally deplorable is the fact that this “peaceful coexistence” has lasted for decades due to the unpardonable connivance of shepherds who should have been ready to lay down their lives if necessary to prevent this evil from gaining access to the fold.

The Gospels of St. Pius X calls homosexuality a sin that “cries out to Heaven for vengeance,” and the Catechism of the Catholic Church promulgated by Pope John Paul II in 1992 says: “Basing itself on Sacred Scripture, which presents homosexual acts as acts of grave depravity, tradition has always declared that ‘homosexual acts are intrinsically disordered’.” Homosexuality is a sin condemned in the Old Testament and by both Saint Peter and Saint Paul in the New, by Fathers and Doctors of the Church, and by the Popes for 2,000 years. Saint Peter Damian, Doctor of the Church, says it “should not be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity.”

We speak of homosexuality, for this indeed is the problem. We all know it can be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity.

We speak of homosexuality, for this indeed is the problem. We all know it can be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity.

But what is the nature of the supposed “self-destruction” of the Church? We must know how to assess things in the light of historical events and Church teaching.

A Mysterious Process of “Self-Destruction”

Let us put aside, however, this external assault on the Church and focus on the more important problem within. The first step in solving any problem consists in its thorough and accurate analysis. Then we can see its detrimental consequences and especially its root cause.

The problem would not exist but for the most culpable negligence of numerous shepherds and, in some cases, the most condemnable complicity of others. There is much for the clergy to address within its ranks, vigorously and urgently. Oh, how many tears will turn to joy when the faithful see bishops like our glorious Saint John Paul II, Philadelphia’s fourth (1852-1860), fearlessly taking on those who would harm Christ’s “little flock.” It behooves us all to beseech God earnestly to send saints and heroes to teach, govern, and sanctify His flock.

Is the clergy alone responsible, though? Is there not the possibility that we—the Catholic laity—stand to be blamed as well, if in varying degrees? Surely, we trusted in the watchfulness of our shepherds. Surely, we feel that our trust was betrayed. Nevertheless, Our Lord had more than just the shepherds in mind when He said, “Watch and pray, that you enter not into temptation” (Matt. 26:41); He addressed us as well.

Did we “watch and pray?” Unfortunately not. In the Garden of Gethsemani, the Church teaching will we find the solution to the present crisis. The Church has dealt with many problems during 2,000 years. She is no less able to deal with them today.

The first and obvious step then is to watch, as Our Lord commanded. We must hone our ability to watch, to pay attention to lurking danger. Thus, when danger appears—particularly when in sheep’s clothing—we must know how to resist it; we must know how to assess things in the light of history and veneration for the supernatural, was targeted.

Inevitably this relativism slowly weakened in conscience the notions of good and evil, grace and sin, virtue and vice. The Church’s clear teaching on every aspect of sexual behavior was gradually blurred. Virtue replaced with a pathetic feel good spirituality, so eventually we fell to where we are today, proof positive of the existence of a process dubbed “satanic” by a pope in our lifetime.

Some critics, moved more by emotions and force of habit than clear thinking, will deny this process of “self-destruction.” Unfortunately, the media bring us daily a most palpable sign of its continuation: Seeing the Church so hard pressed by the scandals, Her enemies both within and without are quick to clamor for additional “reform.” In open challenge to Her Supreme Magisterium, they demand that the Church abolish clerical celibacy and accept the ordination of women, divorce, contraception, abortion, and, oddly enough, even homosexuality. This is exactly what the Church should not do! This would be the next step toward the abyss of total relativism.

Retracing Our Steps

There is only one way to extricate ourselves from the problem we are in—now that our eyes are open. We must retrace our steps. We must return from whence we came. Only in the fullness of Church teaching will we find the solution to the present crisis. The Church has dealt with many problems during 2,000 years. She is no less able to deal with them today.

The second is to watch, as Our Lord commanded. We must hone our ability to watch, to pay attention to lurking danger. Thus, when danger appears—particularly when in sheep’s clothing—we must know how to resist it; we must know how to assess things in the light of history and veneration for the supernatural, was targeted.
contradict Church teachings. The media are engaging in a blitz to portray the Church defined by the sins of Her human members and not by Her Divine origins and doctrines.

We reject these claims. This is not a crisis of Church governing structures but above all one of Faith. In reply, we present the following statement.

The Church, Holy and Immortal, Shall Prevail

"Thou art Peter; and upon this rock, I will build My Church, and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against Her" (Matt. 16:18). To this first promise, Our Lord added a second: "Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will not pass away" (Matt. 24:35). Thus did Jesus Christ establish the One Holy Roman Catholic and Apostolic Church, sealing Her immortality with His divine guaranty.

The violence of the storm currently assailing the Church would likely bring down many a human institution, but not the institution supported by God's own promises. The Church's enemies try with all their might to defame and dishonor Her. They hurl mud and muck, promises. The Church's enemies try with all their might to defame and dishonor Her. They hurl mud and muck, promises. They declare that She cannot survive the scandals per- petrated within and against Her, but their words ring with the uncertainty that it will indeed be so.

Confronted with the silent testimony of history, they know by experience that the Church is both holy and immortal. Nothing stains Her, not even infamy rising from Her ranks, for She is the spotless Bride of Christ. Even at the height of His passion—when the insults against His Divine Person, the wounds inflicted on His Sacred Body, and His public humiliation had reached their apices—the Word of God Incarnate lost none of the gran- deur in His moral profile.

We see this in the Holy Shroud of Turin. Here is a Man atrociously crushed, yet, no painting or sculpture of a king presents more majesty, dignity, or honor than the figure stamped on that burial cloth.

Betrayed Ignobly From Within, Attacked Fiercely From Without

So it is with the Catholic Church today. At the height of Her passion, betrayed ignobly from within, attacked fiercely from without, nothing can disturb Her serenity. When this frightful storm finally abates, She will appear again radiant and victorious.

But while the storm lasts, the suffering is intense, and our faith is tested. For us Catholics this means the shock- ing realization that a holier element, a horrendous cancer, grows within the Mystical Body of Christ. We shoulder at the tragic and unnatural "peaceful coexistence" between vice and that which is virtuous and holy.

The existence of homosexuality1 in the institution that is the very soul of purity and chastity is deplorable bey- ond words. Equally deplorable is the fact that this "peace- ful coexistence" has lasted for decades due to the unpardonable connivance of shepherds who should have been ready to lay down their lives if necessary to prevent this evil from gaining access to the fold.

The Catechism of St. Pius X calls homosexuality a sin that "cries out to Heaven for vengeance," and the Cate- chism of the Catholic Church promulgated by Pope John Paul II in 1992 says: "Basing itself on Sacred Scripture, which presents homosexual acts as acts of grave deprav- ity, tradition has always declared that 'homosexual acts are intrinsically disordered.'" Homosexuality is a sin con- demned in the Old Testament1 and by both Saint Peter and Saint Paul in the New,2 by Fathers and Doctors of the Church, and by the Popes for 2,000 years. Saint Peter Da- mian, Doctor of the Church, says it "should not be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity."

We speak of homosexuality, for this indeed is the problem. We all know Our Lord could be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity.

We speak of homosexuality, for this indeed is the problem. We all know Our Lord could be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity.

This same media have no qualms dealing with them today. Only in the fullness of Church teaching will we find the solution to the present crisis. The Church has dealt with many problems during 2,000 years. She is no less able to deal with them today.

The first and obvious step then is to pray. The second is to watch, as Our Lord commanded. We must hone our ability to watch, to pay attention to lurk- ing danger. Thus, when danger appears—particularly when in sheep's clothing—we must know how to resist it; we must know how to assess things in the light of A Mysterious Process of “Self-Destruction”

Let us put aside, however, this external assault on the Church and focus on the more important problem within.

The first step in solving any problem consists in its thorough and accurate analysis. Then we can address its det- rimental consequences and especially its root cause.

The problem would not exist but for the most culpable negligence of numerous shepherds and, in some cases, the most condemnable complicity of others. There is much for the clergy to address within its ranks, vigorously and urgently. Oh, how many tears will turn to joy when the faithful see bishops like our glorious Saint John Neu- mann, Philadelphia’s fourth (1852-1860), fearlessly taking those on who would harm Christ’s "little flock." It be- hooves us all to beseech God earnestly to send saints and heroes to teach, govern, and sanctify His flock.

Is the clergy alone responsible, though? Is there not the possibility that we—the Catholic laity—stand to be blamed as well, if in varying degrees? Surely, we trusted in the watchfulness of our shepherds. Surely, we feel that our trust was betrayed. Nevertheless, Our Lord had more than just the shepherds in mind when He said, "Watch and pray, that you enter not into temptation" (Matt. 26:41); He addressed us as well.

Did we "watch and pray"? Unfortunately not. In the Gar- den of Gethsemani, our Lord charged us with keeping watch and pray, that you enter not into temptation" (Matt. 26:41); He addressed us as well.

We see this in the Holy Shroud of Turin. Here is a Man atrociously crushed, yet, no painting or sculpture of a king presents more majesty, dignity, or honor than the figure stamped on that burial cloth.

We see this in the Holy Shroud of Turin. Here is a Man atrociously crushed, yet, no painting or sculpture of a king presents more majesty, dignity, or honor than the figure stamped on that burial cloth.

We speak of homosexuality, for this indeed is the problem. We all know Our Lord could be considered an ordinary vice, for it surpasses all of them in enormity.

This same media have no qualms about unleashing a ferocious uproar against the Church, Her doctrine and morals. Adding insult to injury, they give the impression that the criminal behavior of some is the general rule. This is a supreme injustice to all the priests and religious who are faithful to their vows. Moreover, they suggest that the scandals exist because of clerical celibacy. Callously oblivious to the faith and feeling of one billion Catholics, some critics, moved more by emotions and force of habit than clear thinking, will deny this process of "self-de- struction." Unfortunately, the media bring us daily a most palpable sign of its continuation: Seeing the Church so hard pressed by the scandals. Her enemies both within and with- out are quick to clamor for additional "reform." In open challenge to our Supreme Magisterium, they demand that the Church abolish clerical celibacy and accept the ordi- nation of women, divorce, contraception, abortion, and, oddly enough, even homosexuality. This is exactly what the Church should not do! This would be the next step toward the abyss of total relativism.

Retracing Our Steps

There is only one way to extricate ourselves from the problem we are in—now that our eyes are open. We must retrace our steps. We must return from whence we came. Only in the fullness of Church teaching will we find the solution to the present crisis. The Church has dealt with many problems during 2,000 years. She is no less able to deal with them today.

The first and obvious step then is to pray. The second is to watch, as Our Lord commanded. We must hone our ability to watch, to pay attention to lurk- ing danger. Thus, when danger appears—particularly when in sheep's clothing—we must know how to resist it; we must know how to assess things in the light of and veneration for the supernatural, was targeted.

Inevitably this relativism slowly weakened in con- sciences the notions of good and evil, grace and sin, virtue and vice. The Church's clear teaching on every aspect of sexual behavior was gradually blurred. Virtue was replaced by a pathetic and feeble spirituality, so eventually we fell to where we are today, proof positive of the existence of a process dubbed "satanic" by a pope in our lifetime.

Some critics, moved more by emotions and force of habit than clear thinking, will deny this process of "self-destruction." Unfortunately, the media bring us daily a most palpable sign of its continuation: Seeing the Church so hard pressed by the scandals. Her enemies both within and without are quick to clamor for additional "reform." In open challenge to our Supreme Magisterium, they demand that the Church abolish clerical celibacy and accept the ordination of women, divorce, contraception, abortion, and, oddly enough, even homosexuality. This is exactly what the Church should not do! This would be the next step toward the abyss of total relativism.

Retracing Our Steps

There is only one way to extricate ourselves from the problem we are in—now that our eyes are open. We must retrace our steps. We must return from whence we came. Only in the fullness of Church teaching will we find the solution to the present crisis. The Church has dealt with many problems during 2,000 years. She is no less able to deal with them today.

The first and obvious step then is to pray. The second is to watch, as Our Lord commanded. We must hone our ability to watch, to pay attention to lurking danger. Thus, when danger appears—particularly when in sheep's clothing—we must know how to resist it; we must know how to assess things in the light of Catholic principles. This presupposes a clear understanding of the perennial truths of the Faith and the unchanging principles of morality, for which we must study. This “back to the basics” study of Church teaching will rekindle in our hearts a burning love for all the principles long eroded by relativism.

A Call For Heroism

The third step is a proper understanding of sanctity—the heroic struggle for virtue. True and heroic virtue is not anemic or self-centered. It is full of fruits in the apostolate with others. It rejects the comfort zone and the dictates of human respect—the fear of creating complications for ourselves. When faced with opposition, be it from within or without, it does not cringe and boldly proclaims the faith and sound doctrine. The truth is not something to be ashamed of. Our Lord wants to influence society, as yeast ferments the dough. He expects us to be courageous in the face of public ridicule, like Saint Veronica. He invites us to heroism: “Everyone therefore that shall confess Me before men, I will also confess before My Father Who is in Heaven” (Matt. 10:32).

For this journey back to the paternal home to be successful it must become a true spiritual crusade, with all the dedication, self-sacrifice and zeal shown by the heroes of old. These answered Blessed Pope Urban II’s call to arms at Clermont-Ferrand, when he launched the First Crusade, with reverberating cries of “God wills it!” (Matt. 10:32). The Father Who is in Heaven” (Matt. 10:32). "Everyone therefore that shall confess Me before men, I will also confess before My Father Who is in Heaven” (Matt. 10:32). The third step is a proper understanding of sanctity—the heroic struggle for virtue. True and heroic virtue is not anemic or self-centered. It is full of fruits in the apostolate with others. It rejects the comfort zone and the dictates of human respect—the fear of creating complications for ourselves. When faced with opposition, be it from within or without, it does not cringe and boldly proclaims the faith and sound doctrine. The truth is not something to be ashamed of. Our Lord wants to influence society, as yeast ferments the dough. He expects us to be courageous in the face of public ridicule, like Saint Veronica. He invites us to heroism: “Everyone therefore that shall confess Me before men, I will also confess before My Father Who is in Heaven” (Matt. 10:32).

Free Book Order Form

Yes, please send me a FREE copy of I Have Weathered Other Storms: A Response to the Scandals and Democratic Reforms that Threaten the Catholic Church. Please print clearly.

Mr./Mrs./Miss

Address

City  St.  Zip

Phone ( )

E-mail

[] I am a college student.

Beyond Any Doubt, the Church Shall Prevail

If both clergy and faithful carry out their respective duties, with the unflagging help of the Blessed Virgin Mary, of Saint Joseph, Her most chaste spouse and Protector of the Universal Church, of all the angels and saints, we will be rewarded by seeing the Church win one more battle. The present crisis is but one more episode—even if one of the worst—in Her glorious history of struggles.

We are reminded of this by the Catholic intellectual Prof. Plinio Corrêa de Oliveira, who wrote in his seminal work, Revolution and Counter-Revolution: “Amid the storms through which She passes today, the Church could proudly and tranquilly say: ‘I have seen other winds, I have beheld other storms.’ The Church has fought in other lands, against adversaries from among other peoples, and She will undoubtedly continue to face problems and enemies quite different from those of today until the end of time.”

The American TFP

Notes

1. In opposition to a usage that is becoming generalized, we restrict the term “homosexual” to homosexual practices, thus excluding the more inclinations. No individual who suffers from such unnatural inclination and resists it with the help of grace can be called a “homosexual” just as no one who resists the inclination to steal or lie can be called a “thief” or a “liar.”

3. The homosexual abuse of teenage boys is pederasty (ephebophilia).

5. See 2 Pet. 2:6-7; Rom. 1:24-27; 1 Cor. 6:10; 1 Tim. 1:10.

7. The homosexual abuse of teenage boys is pederasty (ephebophilia).

10. Moral “relativism” tries to adapt Catholic doctrine and morality to one’s personal fancies or the ruling form of worldliness. Objective norms of thought and action are thus destroyed. The person becomes the slave of his caprices and those of fashion, as channeled by the media. Eventually, he accepts evil in the guise of good. See Pope John Paul II’s allocation to the religious and priests participating in the First Italian National Congress on Missions to the People for the ‘80s, Feb. 6, 1981, L’Osservatore Romano, Feb. 7, 1981. “Allos ego voi venire; alius prospeti animo procasse,” Cicero, Familiaris, 12, 25, 5.